

Call for Papers!

Mental Health of Indigenous People

Guest Editors:

John Lowe, PhD, RN, FAAN (Cherokee/Creek/Lenape),

and

Eugenia I. Flores Millender, Ph.D., RN, PMH-APRN, CDE, FAAN (Indigenous Panamanian Guna)

The mental health of Indigenous people and communities. Depression, substance use, trauma, anxiety, stress, and suicide represent some of the areas of the mental health needs of Indigenous peoples.

Articles should address the intersection of these needs with the social, cultural, political, and historic contexts in which they occur. As with other special issues, we welcome submissions of manuscripts reflecting our work with populations across the lifespan.

Submissions Timeline:

Submissions Deadline: January 30, 2023

Please feel free to contact the guest editors of this special issue with questions or if intending to submit.

- John Lowe, PhD, RN, FAAN (Cherokee/Creek/Lenape) – john.lowe@autin.utexas.edu
- Eugenia I. Flores Millender, Ph.D., RN, PMH-APRN, CDE, FAAN (Indigenous Panamanian Guna). – emillender@fsu.edu

Learn more about the benefits of publishing in a special issue: <https://www.elsevier.com/authors/submit-your-paper/special-issues>

Interested in becoming a guest editor? Discover the benefits of guest editing a special issue and the valuable contribution that you can make to your field: <https://www.elsevier.com/editors/role-of-an-editor/guest-editors>